Mrs. J. Fauville's Brother First Boy Born in Coleman

For this issue of the old timer's column we have chosen Mrs. J. Fauville of Bellevue, who is not old by any means but who came to Coleman at such a young age that she can be termed as an "old-timer".

Mrs. Fauville, then Maggie Larrigan, came to Coleman from Extension, B.C. at the age of two. She recalls that the first girl born in Coleman was a Smith and that the first boy was her brother who was then named Robert Coleman Larrigan. The third baby born in Coleman was Alma Laurisson whose father was killed in the mine when she was 5 years old. As there was no undertaker at the time, the funeral was arranged by Mrs. Fauvilles mother and wreaths were made of wild flowers gathered by youngsters about town.

The town was mainly shacks during her youth and did not keep out the elements too successfully. The winters were quite severe and the contents of pots on the stove were usually frozen winter mornings. Her home was arranged with bunks as her parents had the only bed. Goods were so hard to be brought in that nothing better could be had.

The first school was the house in the school yard now occupied by Harry Holmes. As the town became more populated, school was held in apartments in the Cameron block. Miss Alcott, now Mrs. Alex Morrison was Mrs. Fauville's first teacher in the public school.

The first doctor in Coleman was Dr. Porter who was later followed by Dr. Ross and Dr. Conley. Dr. Ross acted as dentist also. The first minister was Rev. Murray who rode horse-back to the logging camps to bring the gospel to the rough lumberjacks. Mr. Knowles had the first blacksmith shop in Coleman. That was in second street.

Mr. Ford was the town policeman, justice of the peace and any other position required. Mrs.

Fauville recalls that he carried a small sand black-jack to keep peace in town on Saturday nights.

Mrs. Fauville's grandmother ran a boarding house in second street and Mrs. Beck also ran a boarding house which later burned down. Mrs. Beck's boarding house was situated where the home of J. A. D'Appollonia now stands.

During the Hillcrest mine explosion, the car owned by Joe Plante and Harry Antle was used to carry nurses, medical supplies, etc. to the scene of the disaster. That was the day that Harry Antle received the name of "Smoky", because of his numerous trips with his smoking automobile. Mrs. Fauville now has the headlight plates of this car at home. The glass plates and their frame are now used as picture frames.

The entertainment of the town was supplied by Mrs. Fauville's father who ran a theatre in the old Opera House. He ran picture shows there and occasionally called in vaudeville acts. Mr. and Mrs. Escott ran a theatre under what is at present the Coleman Motors. They later ran a candy and ice-cream shop in the house by the tennis court which was recently demolished when the highway overpass was built there. Jimmy Evans' father ran the only feed store in Coleman. Deliveries of his goods were carried out by use of Shell-land ponies. Coal deliveries were in charge of a Negro, whose wife, Mrs. Fauville recalls, was a very small woman. Both were very well liked in the community and especially by the youngsters about town.

We wish to know if these old timer columns which have appeared in the Journal have interested you and if you have enjoyed them. We would appreciate a word from our reading public in regards to this column. — Editor.

conditions are subject to the means test.

The by-law 250, for the purchase of lot 15, block 14 in plan 820L for a roadway was given its third and final reading. By-law 251 dealing with the business tax amendment for setting the mill rate at 46 mills for 1952 was given its second reading.

Tenders for the renovations to the town hall will be handled by the building committee who will act as they see fit.

A by-law will be drawn up to prevent catpillars and similar equipment from using the hard surfaced roads in the town as these machines cause considerable damage to the roads. Council also decided that ashes must in future be placed within the owners' property as complaints arose from persons depositing their ashes across alleyways not on their property.

It was a skeptic indeed who observed that girls are pensive before marriage, expensive afterwards. — Traer (Iowa) Star-Clipper.

Red Shield Campaign Starts Monday May 12

The Salvation Army Red Shield Campaign will get underway in Coleman Monday, May 12 with a quota for Coleman of $700. District quota is set at $1,800. Chairman Captain Carvey has announced that campaign headquarters will be in the Salvation Army Hall and requests the support of Coleman residents.

The growth and spread of the Salvation Army has been phenomenal and as Canadians salute its 70th anniversary this year they hope it will, in the words of an old hymn its bands often play "from strength to strength go on." By assisting this year's Red Shield Appeal, the public can help bring this to pass.

Goodwill Party Given Idea Of Coal Industry Operation

The Goodwill Tour made up of business men of Lethbridge, Medicine Hat, Magrath, Taber, and other points in Southern Alberta, successfully terminated their cavalcade at the Turtle Mountain Playgrounds Thursday evening. The tour had begun 4 days previously and had visited Trail, Kimberley, Nelson, and Fernie.

The cavalcade arrived in Coleman about 4:15 on May 1, and was met at the station by the Crow's Nest Pass band. Buses then took the members on a tour about Coleman. They visited the rodeo grounds and local mines and were then shown through the Frank slide.

The members of the tour, along with members of the Boards of Trade of Coleman, Blaimore, Bellevue, Hillcrest, and Frank met at the Turtle Mountain Playgrounds at 7:30 for cocktails and supper. There were over two hundred business men present, and a lot of old acquaintances were revived.

The refreshments, of which all freely indulged, were supplied by the West Canadian Collieries and the Coleman Collieries. At every place at the supper table was a booklet put out by the West Canadian Collieries Ltd. The booklet commemorated the company's 50th anniversary and showed the plant at Blaimore and scenic views of Blaimore with the Crow's Nest Mountain in the background, and of Bellevue with the slide in the background. Attached to the supper menu was a small sample of limestone from the slide. Scattered throughout the tables were briquettes from the Blaimore mine.

Rowland Hill, president of the Coleman Board of Trade and acting chairman at the gathering, called upon S. Bannan, president of the Blaimore Board of Trade, to welcome the tour to the Pass. Mr. Bannan gave a little of the history of Blaimore. He welcomed the members from the East even though they were by this time quiet penniless, a point which did not make them less welcomed.

Chairman R. Hill, after introducing various members from Southern Alberta points, then asked George Brown, production manager of radio station CJOC to lead in a singing. The lyrics were written by George Brown and each verse pertained to one town in their tour.

William Bird, general manager of the West Canadian Collieries outlined the mining activities in the Pass with its production of 3 million tons of coal which supplies a market extending from Vancouver to Northern Ontario. In view of the changes taking place in industrial uses of fuels, Mr. Bird stated that the coal industry is now enjoying its most prosperous years.

Mr. Harry Wilton-Clarke, general manager of the Coleman Collieries Ltd. then spoke to the tour. He pointed out that Canada produces 15% of the world's supply of coal and of this, 80 to 90 percent is produced in Alberta. He also told the meeting that the Fernie basin, small in comparison to the total reserves, represented in a Thermal basis the total reserves of oil and gas in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico. The coke essential to the smelter industries, is mainly produced in the Pass as the coal in the area is most suited for coke production.

At the conclusion of the after-dinner speeches, a film was shown. The film showed automatic coal loading machines used in some mines where the seams made it possible for these machines to be used.

The Pass can be quite proud of the reception given the tour. Your reporter heard a few compliments while circulating among those present. Such statements as "biggest and best gathering yet," "best beef since the beginning of the tour," "can't keep your mind on the food, waitresses are too pretty", were heard.

Coleman Doubles Its Red Cross Quota

Campaign chairman W. Dutil has announced that the Red Cross drive is drawing to a close, with Coleman far exceeding its quota.

Sponsored by the Elks lodge the drive was conducted under the direction of W. Dutil, T. Holstead, C. Freeman and C. Pilfold. The objective set for Coleman was $500, a total of $1,100 received to date.

The Elks lodge wish at this time to thank the people of Coleman. Their generous response to the drive resulted in Coleman doubling their quota.

Coleman Youngsters Injured in Accidents

Denis Gary Lorenz, aged 5, was taken to the hospital about 6:30 p.m. on April 24 suffering an injured jaw and lacerations about the face, received when he fell from the north school fence. He had been climbing the fence when his mother, who was near, ordered him down. As she turned to give temporary attention to her other youngster in the carriage, Denis fell to the ground.

Young Terry Melnyk, was taken to the hospital when he fell out of the car on way from Lethbridge. He was playing in the back seat of the car and probably leaned on the door handle which allowed the door to open. He suffered concussion and lacerations about the head and was in quite a critical condition.

Public Invited To Inspect CNP Hospital May 12th

THE OPERATING ROOM
In this modernly equipped operating room Pass residents requiring operative treatment will receive service.

In observance with hospital day, and in keeping with the rest of the country, the management and board of the Crow's Nest Municipal Hospital have announced open house on May 12. The public is cordially invited to inspect the hospital building and facilities between the hours of 1 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Falling on the birthday of Florence Nightingale, founder of the nursing profession, hospital day is designed to further acquaint the general public as to the great works of these people. The hospitals themselves are anxious that no questions in the minds of the public regarding their operation and facilities should be left unanswered. The service they offer is one which touches the average citizen only in his hour of greatest need; and for that reason most persons are not as familiar with its scope as with that of other public services such as schools.

The local hospital operates on a 24-hour-day and is staffed by a total of 46 persons including nursing staff, kitchen, laundry, domestic, engineering and driving staff. An institution of three years existence, the local hospital consists of Matron H. Clemis and assistant Miss A. Margatak, 11 staff nurses, 3 nurses' aids and 3 trainees from the Nurses' Aid Training School at Calgary. It is to these people that all the praise and respect is due. Hospital Day is first and basically an opportunity to pay tribute to these persons that perform life saving duties every day without proper gratitude or recognition.

Thinking first of the patient, Matron Clemis has only one request of the public in making the operation of the hospital efficient and that is regarding visiting hours. They in charge ask that strict adherence of the visiting hours and the numbers of visitors at any one time be observed for the good of the patient. Proper use of the card system installed will assure better conditions for visitor and patient alike.

A tribute to the hospital cannot be made without paying tribute to the Ladies' Auxiliary who work without payment for the comfort of the patient and the improvement of the hospital. The local group under the presidency of Mrs. S. Bannan of Blaimore, Secretary Mrs. F. Leavitt, Blaimore and Treasurer Mrs. I. Golebiowski, Coleman, has performed a great duty during the two years they have been in existence. With a membership of 42, the organization has purchased for the hospital the following in addition to the large amount of sewing done: oxygen tent, mattress, lamp, incubator, 2 sewing machines. The project for this year is the purchase of a lamp for the case room. Each year the auxiliary has presented the Christmas baby with a silver cup, while two members visit with the patients at the hospital once a week.

HOD PHARIS RECORDING
NOW ON SALE

"Hollis Phariss" song, "The Call of the Mountains" has created quite a stir in the U.S.A. These were the words quoted by Ian Arrol over CFCN last Friday. Hollis' song is now available in three recordings, Columbia, Decca and Argyle have recorded his own version.

The song is also being sold in sheet music, bearing Hollis' photo in cowboy togs and his familiar white Stetson hat.

High School Presents Operetta

The second operetta put on by the high school was a great success again. Many persons about town were heard to remark on the excellent performance. The operetta was entitled the Forest Prince, a look into Caesar's Russia. The performance was a financial success also netting a gross intake of approximately $400.

The high school held a small party Friday evening as their reward for staging the operetta. The big reward for which the operetta is designed will be the annual school prom sometime in June.

The recording in his own version is now on sale at Chalmers' Jewellery Store, Coleman, and Heintzmans in Calgary.

Town Council Has Busy Night

A regular meeting of the council was held in council chambers on Tuesday, April 29 with councillors Woods, Jenkins, Ramsay, Toppano, Wavrean, and Mayor Aboussafy present.

A pension plan was outlined by the Lethbridge representative of Manufacturers Life. This plan would concern permanent salaried employees only. The council will get more information regarding the plan.

As there has been numerous complaints about dust conditions on 4th street, a wire will be sent to the Minister of Highways regarding a remedy for situation.

The council accepted Mr. T. J. Costigan's conditions and approved his appointment as town solicitor. Town foreman J. Malanchuk was appointed town plumbing inspector.

Notification was received that widows between the ages of 60 and 65 may now obtain Widows' Pension forms at the town office. Anyone applying must be a resident of Canada for 20 years at age 65. Widows under these

Safety On The Highway

WITH THE COMING OF SPRING there will be an increase in the number of cars on highways throughout Canada, and regrettably, there will be many motor accidents before the end of the season. In spite of road signs, traffic regulations, highway police patrols and other precautionary measures there are a large number of accidents every year, many of them involving loss of life. Incompetent drivers, faulty cars and failure to regard traffic regulations and speed limits cause many of these accidents. Sometimes, circumstances beyond the control of the drivers cause mishaps on the road, but unfortunately a large percentage of the accidents each year are caused by some form of negligence.

Called Public Enemy No. 1

Recently the Bureau of Highway Safety of the State of Pennsylvania published a booklet entitled "Speed, Public Enemy No. 1." While figures and conditions given in that booklet would not necessarily correspond to those in any part of Canada, there are generalities in the facts presented which would apply anywhere. A survey of the death rate from highway accidents in the United States in 1950 showed that the average rate was 7.5 deaths per 100 million miles of travel. In states where there was no maximum speed limit, but where motorists were bound only to drive with "reasonable care", the average number of fatalities was from 6.1 to 11.5 per cent. higher than the national average.

Speed Related To Death Rate

In states where the speed limit was 50 miles per hour, the death rate was 20 per cent. lower than the average, while in states where the limit was 45 miles an hour the rate was 41.3 per cent. below the average. In Massachusetts, where the limit is 40 miles an hour, the death rate was 49.3 per cent. less than the national average. These figures show that there is a definite relationship between the speed limit and the number of fatal highway accidents. The booklet further points out that when cars are travelling at very high rates of speed the chance of escaping collision with other cars or with objects on the road is much less than when they are going at a moderate speed. Road conditions, the number of cars on the highways, and various other factors influence the number of accidents and no set of figures could be taken to apply everywhere, but the facts gathered by the Pennsylvania State Highway Safety Bureau do point to the danger of driving at high speeds, and motorists would do well to bear these facts in mind wherever they may be driving.

B.C. Fruit Growers Use Shotguns To Fertilize Trees

PENTICTON, B.C.—As far as fruit farmers are concerned, the birds and bees are obsolete. Farmers in British Columbia's Okanagan valley now fertilize their trees by shotgun. It's not as silly as it sounds. From about 10 feet, the workman fires a shell containing one-fiftieth of an ounce of pollen from a standard 12 gauge shotgun. The pollen then settles on the blossoms and fertilizes them.

Lawrence Bartlett, distributor for the pollen in B.C., said about five times as much pollen is being used this year as last. It follows relaxation of regulations which formerly made it difficult to get the pollen because of the disease hazard. The pollen is gathered mostly in California and Oregon.

One orchard with 150 acres here will discharge 600 shells at cherries, delicious and winesap apples, D'Anjou and Bartlett pears and Hain peaches. Some apricots and plums will be pollinated artificially this year.

Other methods of pollination, such as use of a brush, blower applicator,

Who was it said: The trouble with most household budgets is that there's usually too much month left over at the end of the money?

Here's the story of an elderly woman who, in her autumnal years, made a career of spreading what she was wont to call sunshine among the inmates of a penitentiary.

Stopping outside the cell of one convict, she attempted to cheer him in the words of the poet: "Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cage. . ."
"No," he answered slowly. "But they help, lady, they help."

"Pardon me, sir," said the waiter, taking up the money, "but this includes nothing for the waiter."
"I didn't eat one, did I?" said the professor, glancing up from his book.

An aged character in a little Eastern community surprised everybody by getting married. A few days after the ceremony, the reeve of the village met the old fellow and offered congratulations.

"Well, Timothy," he said, "I hear you finally got married."
"Yup," said the old fellow. "I alius said I'd never get hitched 'til I had a reg'lar income, week in, week out."

"Indeed," said the Reeve, "and have you got a regular income now?"
"Yup," said old George, proudly. "I started drawin' me old-age pension two weeks ago."

She had insisted on taking along every garment she owned. They arrived at the station loaded with baggage. "I wish," said the husband thoughtfully, "that we'd brought your piano."

"Now, let's not try to be funny," came the frigid reply. "I'm not trying to be funny," he sadly explained. "I left the tickets on it."

Queen Juliana Says Canadians Have Earned Worldwide Trust

(By The Canadian Press)
Queen Juliana of The Netherlands praised Canadians for their hospitality and sense of responsibility and said they have earned the respect and trust of people around the world. "There will not be much difficulty for you people and ours," she said, to build together in mutual respect, for a better world."

The Queen, making an informal six-day visit to this capital that was her home during the Second World War, spoke to Canadians over the trans-Canada network of the CBC.

The broadcast followed a busy round of community visits.

Most of the speech was delivered in English. Other parts were in Dutch, a special message to Dutch immigrants who have made their home in Canada, and in French, in praise of the spirit of French-speaking Canadians.

The text follows:
"Friends in Canada,
"I am happy to be in your country again and to extend to you the greetings of the people of The Netherlands."

"Personally I am happy, too. How memories can be really once more and how can this thing, called time, suddenly yield to remembrance, as though there have been no years in between!"

"Moreover, so much of what time brings aside remains alive and up to date. And this certainly is the case as regards the kind of alliance we had in the years of the war."

"Many of you were as much at home in my country, as I felt in yours."

"I think the cause of this really is that both Canadians and Dutchmen know how to sacrifice heart and home for the common good."

"Your warm hospitality has left such an indelible mark upon me, that, whenever I look back on it, I see a picture of the future which is of great benefit for us all. What I see is this: that distress is bearable so much better in union, than apart, in separateness."

"Therefore, I marvel when thinking that God has ordained it thus for mankind, that, in sharing each other's burdens, a strong union can be built up as a fighting force, which opens new points of view for possibilities in every direction. In His creation the human viewpoints are always dependent on Him."

"There is enough to find in your nation and people to base this belief on—such as your hospitableness for those who immigrate, an all-round hospitality which will make many things which still need linking."

"When I say a few words to my countrymen here, I would like to say this:
(Queen Juliana then spoke in Dutch).

"However long you may be living here, the people around you will continue to see Holland in you and will continue to judge it by you. I always rejoice when I hear that you are doing well and that you are successfully building your future, that you are doing this in harmony and friendship with your new surroundings."

"The old friction and disappointment may be unavoidable, but they will remain the exceptions to the rule. Let this be and remain the key."

"All this points to a coming fate, matchless and unequalled in history. Queen Juliana spoke again in English:
"You, Canadians, are from inclination choosing to set out your course in concern with the well-being of humanity in general. So it is small wonder, that you are respected and trusted all the world over, because you follow the dictates of your great sense of responsibility for others."

"There will not be much difficulty for your people and ours, to build together in mutual respect, for a better world."

(Queen Juliana concluded in French with the following:
"You other Canadians, you are choosing by inclination a way of life which takes an interest in the well-being of humanity. It is not surprising, therefore, that you are respected everywhere in the world and that everybody is counting on you. You obey a profound sense of responsibility for your neighbor."

"There will be no difficulty at all for your people and ours to build together a mutual respect, a new and better world."

Self-Help Gadgets Restore Morale Of Arthritic Sufferers

Imagine yourself, relaxing in an easy chair, wanting a smoke, your cigarettes having fallen to the floor. What would you do? Pick them up? Sure, you would if you could, but if your joints were locked in spine, hips and neck, those cigarettes might as well be in China for all the good they'd do you.

These are just two examples of what arthritis can do to make life ornery and difficult for helpless victims. Every time they want their hair combed, some of them must rely on others to do it; frequently they can't feed themselves; some of them can't sit on an ordinary chair or toilet seat; many women have to be helped put on their underclothes and dresses; men may have to get someone help them put on their Spring came too quickly for this plane at Lac du Bonnet, Manitoba, about 60 miles northeast of Winnipeg. The patrol car of the Manitoba government, which is well known throughout Ontario mining camps, broke through the ice while being hauled up for conversion from skis to postcamps. The ice, believed to have been about three feet thick, was considerably weakened by a four-day warm spell which saw temperatures of from 60 to 80 degrees. Quick action by ground crews saved the plane from being completely submerged.—Central Press Canadian.

Weight Training A "Must"

Proper weightlifting training will help an athlete increase skill, endurance, power and confidence no matter what their sport. This was indicated by the research of several widely recognized authorities.

All athletes, regardless of the game they play, should be given weight training at the start of every season as a part of the conditioning program, and some weight work should be continued throughout the season. Weight training is also an ideal off-season activity for athletes. Muscles so trained can be readied quickly at the start of a new season, and new endurance and skill will be possible.

It was also found that weight training muscles are less easily injured.

The best type of weight training for athletes is that conducted under the following system: The starting weight should be just light enough so that the athlete can repeat the exercise quickly 15 times. When a 25 per cent. improvement in this ability is noted, the weight should be increased. The amount added should be governed by the athlete's ability to move it 15 times quickly without having to strain or slow down. The normal period of time spent on each weight is about 7-10 days. The weight workout should be performed every other day, after other practice work has been finished. The best time is in the evening before retiring. Once per week the athlete should try to reach a maximum number of repetitions in each exercise. Otherwise he should repeat only 15 times.

Another important point is that flexibility and speed work should be done immediately following weight exercising.

- Notes:
1. Use properly made equipment. Homemade or make-shift equipment can be dangerous.
  2. The exercises should be selected in co-operation with the coach or trainer or someone who knows the muscles used in the activity for which the training is being taken.
  3. Most prominent barbell companies have excellent exercise courses including drills for all parts of the body.

So start in today and do a job of building that body of yours for the coming season.

On The Side: E. V. Durling

When a woman has an unexpected run in her stocking, it can spoil what otherwise might have been a beautiful evening, or when a wife has a run in her stocking in the afternoon, it can so affect her disposition that she might speak with unnecessary harshness that evening to her loving husband. When a secretary has a run in her stocking in the morning, it can seriously affect her efficiency. When stockings wear out quickly, this can put a slight dent in a husband's bankroll. So men have a definite interest in the wearing qualities of women's hosiery. Not long ago a hosiery manufacturer said that stockings often have runs or wear out quickly because women don't know how to take care of them. Many women have heatedly denied this accusation. They say the manufacturer is "passing the buck." However, I have heard from a young woman who says the man is right. She says her nylons last a year because she knows how to take care of them; how to take them off and put them on. Knowledge, she says, which most of her friends do not possess.

Taste Doesn't Tell

As to whether whisky is young or old, the average drinker cannot determine by the taste. He goes by the label. That's what one group of distillers of Scotch whisky claimed. They practically proved their point by a test participated in by some eminent British drinkers. Much to the surprise of these drinkers they found themselves unable to distinguish between young and old whisky. The discussion was inspired by the fact that the Scotch Distillers association opposes the export of any whisky less than three years old. The Independent Distillers association of Great Britain urges the export of younger liquor, claiming drinkers, especially those in North America, wouldn't know the difference.

Handbags for Men

What is the average weight of the articles your charming matrimonial mate carries in her handbag? Check on it. Also check on the weight of the things you carry in your pockets. Recently a group of men were checked on the weight of their pocket contents. Low man was carrying 14 ounces of stuff. High man had 11 pounds, 8 ounces! This test was made during an argument as to whether men should carry handbags. I have been studying this angle for years. I am definitely against handbags. Think of how Clem McCarthy would look carrying a handbag. Or Bill Corum. Still, loading up the pockets is bad. Ruins the effect of a well-made suit. A carrier that looks like a brief case has been suggested. No good for me unless tied around my neck. I would always be losing it. What do you think of something on the order of a money belt? Or have you some other ideas?

NOTES AND COMMENTS

Nuisance Grounds or Provincial Park?

As a resident of the Pass would you prefer the Frank Slide to become a Provincial Park . . . or to continue along its way of becoming a nuisance ground?

A recent visit to this historic spot shocked the writer by the manner in which it is being used. Everywhere you look boxes, cans or parts of old cars show up between the rocks. To speak plainly, such a condition is a disgrace and should be remedied.

The Alberta government showed its respect for the dead of Frank a few years ago by prohibiting the posting of signs in the area . . . they could do more by making the area a provincial park thus adding another drawing card for the tourist trade. Proper government supervision would eliminate such degradation of what should be considered sacred ground.

The Pass and its special areas is as scenic as any point in the province yet it is being ignored in the government's publicity program. A similar condition existed at Drumheller's Badlands. However the residents of that area made their wishes known and made certain the government knew of their desires.

If we want increased tourist trade we must work for it. We must let the world know what we already know. The C.P.R. and the government built Banff by convincing tourists they should go there. With improved roads in sight it is not too early to begin spreading word of the beauty and opportunities of the Pass area. It's all up to you Mr. Citizen. Proper publicity throughout the continent and the location of a Provincial Park are two of the initial steps.

The Odds Are Too High

Odds of fifty-fifty are good on the sweepstakes, but when they are stacked that even that someone you love will suffer the agony of cancer, they are definitely out of line. The five to one chance that you yourself will have cancer is a little better . . . but still not good enough.

Many an editorial has been written asking the support of this or that worthy cause. This editorial is not written to ask your support for the Cancer Crusade that begins here next month . . . it is written to show you what you stand to lose unless you do. Can you afford to neglect your part in the fight against this dread disease anymore than you can afford to let your nation go undefended? Your life is just as much at stake in this battle.

Just think it over awhile. How many of your friends and acquaintances have lost the fight to this strong foe . . . how many more are suffering the effects of cancer's complications and the heavy financial burden that accompanies a disease of this magnitude? Can you afford to ignore the campaign? Is a dime or a dollar going to do more for you invested in any other manner? Remember those odds when the canvasser calls on you.

The tragedy of cancer is not in the number of cases or in the financial loss. It is in the fact that cancer can be cured. The Canadian Cancer Society is firm in its belief that with the present knowledge the number of cancer cures effected could be doubled. Mr. Citizen, that's where you come in.

The Cancer Society are not begging . . . they are asking you to give them support so that they can help you and your loved ones. They are asking you to provide them with the items and resources that will enable them to conquer cancer. Your dimes and dollars will furnish more doctors and nurses to carry out this work. Money will train more research scientists to specialize in this type of warfare . . . it will provide and equip laboratories and hospitals. Most of all it will lower the odds and give you the knowledge that something can be done for you should you fall victim to cancer.

The Alberta branch of the Canadian Cancer Society is asking for $175,000 to finance its campaign. Your share of this amount is trivial if everyone does their part. Don't consider the cancer campaign canvasser as just another solicitor, without his efforts and your donation the work planned by this group may go unfinished. The Cancer society and those men and women that donate their time to the campaign are your best friends . . . friends that are interested enough in your behalf to go out and work for it.

We have given you the facts as they appear to us. You must decide for yourself if these odds are fair with you and how much you are willing to give to have them lowered.

Many Turned Away At "Talent Hunt"

A capacity crowd filled the Roxy theatre Sunday evening when the Coleman Elks held their talent hunt. All seats were taken and additional chairs were brought in. This however was not enough to accommodate all those who wished to see the show with the result that many were turned away.

The talent hunt was held in conjunction with the Bellevue Lions annual May 24 celebration. Four winners were to be picked from the Coleman talent hunt and similar winners were to be picked throughout the Pass towns. Another such night will be held in Bellevue on May 9. At this show two from each participating town will be picked and the finals will be held in the Bellevue arena on May 24. At the annual May 24 show four winners will be selected and these four will journey to Calgary and appear in the Calgary Power Discoveries programme.

The judges for Sunday night's contest were Roy Price, Bill Harper, Tom Price, and Joe Fortenoss. The eventual four winners will receive prizes of $100, $75, $50, $25.

The contestants who entered were Eddie Greger and Peter Voykin who gave a guitar duet, Raymond Bias in a vocal solo, Michael Hill in a piano solo, Anne Bodisch who brought down the house in her rendition of "Wheel of Fortune," an accordion quartet, Neddie and Helen Friessen in a vocal duet, Dolores Somshor in a vocal solo, Richard Pedusab in a violin solo, Mrs. Juanita Gareau in a vocal solo, Diane Dickleson in a piano solo, Doreen Bodisch and Josephine Zinook in a vocal duet and Peter Voykin in a western vocal solo.

Credit must be given to the guest artists appearing in the programme whose artistry so well rounded out the evening. The artists who did not enter the competition were Miss Monica Olds, Mr. McLaFerty, and Eric Price.

The audience had the chance to do its stuff during the singing which was held before intermission, and which added greatly to the enjoyable evening.

The judges had quite a difficult time in selecting four winners and solved the problem by selecting six. The winners were Anne Bodisch, the accordion quartet made up of Eugene Lucky, Ralf Vigna, Bernice Bruza, and Georgina Misure; Neddie & Helen Friessen, Richard Pedusab, Juanita Gareau, and Doreen Bodisch and Josephine Zinook.

If all shows come off as this one, the scheme will be highly successful. Good luck Bellevue!

Funeral Services Held For Primo Lant

Since 1927 he had worked in the mines and for J.S. and J.A. D'Appolonia. He was employed by the Coleman Collieries in the McGillivray mine until he became ill last November. He died at the municipal hospital on April 23.

A Trip to The Festival of Britain

(by Mrs. Robert Parry)

After an absence of 25 years it was good to see England once again, the lights of London especially Leaving Waterloo for Victoria station, I was greatly impressed by the millions of coloured lights, Lambeth Bridge looked like a scene from fairyland.

Arriving at Victoria station at midnight I was told by a porter that the Hastings train had already left, but a voice piped up from behind me and said "Come on Duck here's the midnight Festival Special, (the train leaving at midnight for Hastings.).

What struck me most when I awoke the next morning was the beautiful green countryside. The weather was lovely, and my brother and his wife called at my old home and took me for a lovely drive to Seaford, and then on to Alfrinston, where I visited Mrs. Peggy Price's of Hillcrest, parents (Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew), who were very pleased to see me. They even showed me the old Anderson shelter they used during the war. After a nice day in the country, we returned home and watched the T.V. Show, "Battersea Park Special", which was very interesting.

On arriving in London at 10 p.m. we took a bus to Westminster and stood on the embankment and stared in amazement at the South Bank Exhibition, which was just like stepping into another world; all one could see was a blaze of lights. It was quite a contrast to drive down to Harringway and see Barbara Ann Scott in "Rose Marie" on Ice, which features the Canadian Rockies, and The Chateau Frontenac, Quebec. We also enjoyed a visit to Kew Gardens, Madame Tussaud's, Westminster Abbey, and St. Paul's Cathedral, climbed the 470 steps up to the Whispering Gallery and up some more steps and out onto the balcony, where we could see all London, also the big gaps which once were prosperous business establishments before the blitz, and now are flower gardens.

We spent a day at the South Bank Exhibition but I preferred Battersea Park myself which was much more amusing, the South Bank being much too scientific from a woman's point of view. The exhibits were really interesting, the first fire engine which was used in London, the first locomotive, and the very modern engines also. The latest Jet engines were also on view, this was very interesting from a man's point of view.

Next we saw the Guinness clock which advertises Guinness' Ales, this clock stands 15 feet high and strikes every 15 minutes, at the first stroke a sort of cupola lifts up and you suddenly discover it is not a cupola at all but an umbrella, held by the Guinness Zookeeper, who emerges ringing a bell. Then the sun overhead begins to spin. From the top of a turret the Mad Hatter pops into view dropping a line down the side of it to a well; up comes a fish, grab goes the Mad Hatter, down drops the fish while another comes out of its mouth. Once more the Mad Hatter clutches wildly, missed! But here is another fish—and so it goes on. Meanwhile there has been some struggling in a chimney, a highly animated ostrich appears above the clock face, a ring of familiar creatures from the Guinness zoo begins sedately revolving. Somewhere else—do not ask me where, a musical box is ringing merrily—after this, if you really want to know the time—ask a policeman!

The South Bank exhibition is neither a museum of British culture, nor a trade show of British wares, it tells the story of British contributions to world civilization in the arts of peace. In a visit to the pavilions, visitors see the past, continuing with the present, with a preview of the continuing future.

The Dome of Discovery, which included the Land, Earth, Sky, Outer Space, Sea, Living World, and the Physical World, was too scientific in many ways for the ordinary person, having only one day to spend at the South Bank, I wasn't able to see very many of the exhibits. It would take quite a few days to visit them all, and so we regretfully left London for Hastings, to begin packing for home and Coleman.

NEW PLATES DO NOT DESIGNATE AREAS

The new Alberta license plates of two numbers a letter and two more numbers will have no bearing on where the car is from. Unlike other years, you will not be able to look at the first couple of numbers and pick out a motorist from your own locality. However it appears that most of the cars in the Pass area are carrying the letter W, although the same number does appear in other areas to some extent.

The lower letters are issued in the Edmonton area with A, B and C, the plates going further down the alphabet as you come south. There are no special numbers set aside for doctors, police or government cars as was the case in the past.

Local A.T.A. Hears Councillors Report On A.G.M. Meeting

Members of the local A.T.A. met in Blaimore on Tuesday, April 29 for their regular monthly meeting.

Councillors Miss Sellon of Blaimore and Mr. Nadeau of Coleman reported on the A.G.M. meeting held in Calgary during the Easter holidays. The big question brought up at this teachers' meeting in Calgary was the teachers' Pension Fund. At present the Fund has a 13 million dollar unfounded liability, and is causing teachers throughout the province great concern.

The pension fund was inaugurated in 1939, giving retiring teachers full benefits even though they may have paid little if anything into the fund. The result is that the fund is now insufficient to meet the required payments. The liability has been growing steadily, with the rise in wages only acting as a speeding up process. At present the stability of the fund is not threatened but should conditions continue as they now are for the next five years, then cause for anxiety is warranted.

Some suggestions were put forward at the meeting to deal with the critical situation. One such remedy would take a ten year period for basis of payment. Another remedy would be larger contributions to the fund, and a third suggestion was to change the scheme entirely. The Hon.

Mr. Ivan Casey, minister of education told the meeting that the provincial government was also quite concerned about the scheme and that the government was not prepared to do anything until there was evidence that the scheme was stable.

The A.G.M. passed the resolution that Mr. Coward of Toronto, who to a large extent drew up the scheme, be called in and meet with the executive to review the scheme.

The second item of importance discussed at the meeting was the strike question. Mr. Casey criticized the teachers on their strike action. He told the meeting that under such action the body would not be acting in a professional manner. He said that the government, faced with strike action from teachers, would have no alternative but to appoint an arbitral body and its decision would be binding to all parties concerned.

Mr. McKim Ross, in his reply to Mr. Casey, pointed out that teachers were under the Alberta Labor Act and were treated by the Act as another trade union. Under these conditions they (the teachers) could legally strike.

Following the report from the councillors, the panel discussion on accumulative records was continued. In these discussions, problems concerning the keeping of these records were threshed out. Mr. J. A. McKay, superintendent of schools for the Pincher Creek Division and the Crow's Nest Pass, was called upon to reply to some of the problems arising from the discussion.

Following the closing of the meeting, the teachers were treated to a lunch put up by members of the Blaimore staff.

An artist's impression of the interior of the Canadian Pacific Railway's new restaurant counter cars which will go into service soon to feed over 50,000 immigrants which the railway expects to carry from eastern Canadian ports to points across the country during 1952. The new cars follow a design conceived by the C.P.R.'s sleeping and dining, colonization, and mechanical departments after tests conducted last year with stripped down standard dining cars proved the need for newly designed equipment. Their aim is to provide less costly meals more quickly in a setting which will make the traveller feel at ease.

Soup Cookery Gives a Boost to Meat

IF THE meat problem "has you up a tree," quick get acquainted with condensed tomato soup.

The rich, ready tomato sauce has special cooking value in this meat-scarce period. Whether hot dogs, fish, or hamburgers are on your menu, the main dish will be more tempting and go farther with a tomato-soup-sauce.

Another bright idea. Use the tomato soup and one of the fine canned meats to make a mouth-watering main dish, all from products kept on the kitchen shelf. TOMATO CORNED BEEF HASH is this kind of dish. And the rest of a royal repast can come from the same handy shelf. Feature this casserole "alongside of" green beans in vinegar sauce, peach salad, and butterscotch pudding.

Tomato Corned Beef Hash
1 large onion, sliced
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 1/2-pound can corned beef hash
1 can (1 1/2 cups) condensed tomato soup

1/2 cup buttered bread crumbs
Cook onion until tender in 2 tablespoons butter in a skillet. Break corned beef hash into small pieces; place half of it in a 1-quart casserole. Pour over it 1/2 can soup; add onion slices and remaining corned beef hash and soup. Sprinkle top with buttered bread crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F) for 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

SOUP SCOOPS

VALENTINES FOR YOUR TABLE: Make Monday a festive affair on the day of hearts. Adorn the table with rose-red tomato soup, topped by heart-shaped croutons. Cut these from slightly dry bread or from biscuit dough. Use a small cutter, or make a cardboard pattern to cut around. Brown or bake and put two or three on each bowl of soup.

SUNDAY SPAGHETTI: Simply scrumptious with a can of spaghetti in tomato sauce with cheese is a liberal addition of good browned chicken livers. Cut about 1/2 pound of the livers into bite-size pieces. Then cook the meat in butter until browned and done. Just add spaghetti, heat well and serve.

SHRIMP IN MUSHROOM SAUCE: You "never had shrimp so good" till you have it sauced with a can of mushroom soup. Blend the condensed soup with 1/2 cup milk and 1/2 cup of sautéed green pepper strips; then add about 1/2 cup of cooked shrimp cut in half lengthwise. Pour this over 3 cups of hot fluffy rice. Curry lovers can blend the rice with 2 tablespoons of melted butter mixed with 1/2 teaspoon curry powder.

DR. R. O. MacFARLANE

New "principal" of Canada's biggest "school" is Dr. R. O. MacFarlane of Winnipeg, who is also deputy minister of education for Manitoba. As chairman of the National Advisory Council on school broadcasting, he now helps co-ordinate the work of the CBC and the provincial departments of education in planning national school broadcasts which, supplemented by provincially-organized programs, reach an estimated 600,000 pupils in one-third of the country's schools. Dr. MacFarlane was named chairman of the advisory body to replace Dr. W. P. Percival, director of Protestant education in Quebec, who had occupied the post for a number of years.

BILL BEATTY

Bill Beatty of Toronto, one of the CBC's roving men-with-a-mike, whose interviews with people in the news and the man-in-the street are heard regularly on CBC News Roundup, broadcast Monday to Friday on the CBC Trans-Canada network. From time to time he heads for the far north, the deep south, or for cities and villages across Canada to do on-the-spot descriptions of special events, people and places for CBC feature broadcasts. He was one of the first Canadians to use tape-recordings successfully. His expert knowledge of tape cutting and editing was put to the test during the Royal Tour, when he edited Royal Tour Diary, a nightly CBC report on the day's travels of the Royal Couple.

TONY STECHESON

"A song is more lasting than the riches of the world" — and with this bit of philosophy CBC troubadour Tony Stecheson opens his program every Tuesday evening at 5:40 p.m. C.S.T. on C.B.W., 6 p.m. M.S.T. on C.B.K.-C.B.X. Blending voice with guitar, Tony's melodious songs of romance appeal to listeners of all ages. When not entertaining, his interest extends to collecting antique curios. A most prized possession is a number of miniature guitars; none of these are more than five inches long, and they are complete with strings and key pegs. The curios date back 200 years and are overlaid with tortoise shell and inlaid in ivory and mother-of-pearl.

No More Horsemeat

The horse meat problem seems to have solved itself. The two major processing plants at Swift Current and Edmonton are up for sale. The big supply of raw material is reported as almost exhausted.

All that was to be expected. The horse is primarily a work animal, not raised specially for meat. We have other livestock much more suitable for that.

In this country the tractor and truck have practically replaced the work horse. Once the present population is gone few more will be bred. Instead of starting a new industry the special processing plants on the prairies merely speeded the finish of a conquest that began almost 50 years ago.

From left to right, they are baritone John Ringham from Vancouver; tenors Harvard Reddick from Bloomfield, Ontario, and Carl Tapscott from Toronto; and bass Donald Parrish from Wallaceburg, Ontario. Three of the men date their partnership from the days when they were together in the Navy Show during the Second Great War. They formed a quartet backstage and later sang together on concert parties. After the war one of the four decided to go back to his job in Winnipeg, and Reddick joined The Commodores in his place.

Displayed at Windsor Station, Montreal, the $15,000-model will go on tour to Winnipeg, Vancouver, and Honolulu, in addition to appearing at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto this year. A removable panel in the side displays the interior of the model which consists of crew compartment, showing pilot and co-pilot seat in front of a detailed control panel. The wireless operators' dials and range sets are aligned in one corner while the navigators' working table is shown in the other. The next section shows lounge room. The lounge section which accommodates two sets of four chairs has tables with folding leaves, while the body contains 28 reclining chairs, with the hand luggage rack overhead. ## Tragedy Strikes At Vancouver

Police are investigating the blaze which swept the Kitsilano apartment building on April 21 which took the life of Mrs. Roy Muir and her seven-year-old daughter Sharon.

Mr. and Mrs. Muir and daughter had spent a few days previously visiting relatives in Alberta and visited here in Gilles with Mr. and Mrs. Gilman on Friday, April 18, only three days before the tragedy.

Mrs. Muir and young Sharon were trapped in the bathroom of their apartment when the building went up in a roaring inferno. Their charred remains were found in the bathroom. Mrs. Muir embracing her young daughter in her arms in a last gesture of protection. Mr. Muir had gone out only minutes before to get some ice-cream and cokes as a small birthday treat for his wife. She would have been 26 next day. When he returned the building was ablaze. He was prevented from entering the building by police officers and his attempts to contact his wife through the window failed. Fifteen others escaped the fire.

After the blaze Mr. Muir slowly walked about the apartment, the only completely destroyed apartment in the building. Outside on the curb remained the ice-cream and cokes where they had smashed on the concrete sidewalk.

Of the many Colemanites who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Dickson, and Mr. and Mrs. Beveridge.

School Board Approves Plans

At the regular meeting of the Coleman school trustees held on Monday, May 5, the members approved the plans submitted to them for the addition of two rooms in the Cameron school. After close scrutiny the plans were found satisfactory. Copies of the plans will now be sent to the Department of Education for approval.

Miss Connie Alexander, of Bellevue was accepted to fill one of the two positions on the school staff for the coming '52-'53 term.

A letter was received from the Alberta School Trustees Association requesting the board to forward to that body copies of salary negotiations and schedules. Such schedules will be forwarded to the Association.

The board decided that they will pay $2,000.00 on their bank loan even though the payment is not yet due. It was felt that payment of this $2,000.00 will appreciably decrease the monthly interest on the loan.

It was also reported by school principal H. Allen that the $100 scholarship which will be given by the Crow's Nest Pass Nurses' Association will not necessarily be given to the person entering the nursing profession holding the highest academic standing, but the need of each applicant will be taken into consideration.

WEDDING

MASCHERIN - DAMBOIS

A wedding of interest to the Pass took place in Lethbridge, Saturday April 12, when Shirley Jean Danbois of Bellevue, and Eldido Mascherin of Coleman were married in a double ring ceremony.

The bride looked lovely in a floor-length white bridal gown, with a fitted bodice of lace, and a bouffant skirt of net over satin. Her headpiece was of seed pearls, to match the trimming on her gown, and held in place a full-length veil. Her bouquet was of roses and Calla lilies.

The bridesmaid, Luella Tetreau, of Lethbridge, was dressed in a full length gown of mauve and carried a bouquet of sweet-peas and carnations. Joseph Mozzon of Coleman, was groomsmen. The reception was held at the Lotus Inn, where the four-tiered wedding cake was cut.

After the reception, the bride changed to a grey suit with a coral topcoat and white accessories, for a trip by car through the States to Washington.

On their return the young couple will make their home in Coleman, where the groom is a member of the teaching staff.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Holstead:

The other day I received a parcel from home and to my surprise enclosed inside were three copies of the Coleman Journal. Well I read those papers I bet 50 times and believe me it sure was swell to read again of the happenings and going-ons of the people and friends in my home town. I want to wish you the very best of luck in your efforts as I know in my heart and in the hearts of many others it is appreciated.

The part of Germany that I am in is sure beautiful and I've seen quite a number of marvellous sights. One for example is Belsen. I guess you and many others heard and know about that place. That is where so many Jews were tortured to death by the Witch of Belsen. They have wonderful monuments down there to commemorate the dead. Some of the mounds have 3000 buried in them. Others have more.

Well Tom, I'll say so long for this time. So in closing I thank you again and say hello to my friends in Coleman.

Pte. R. T. MacDonald, Munster Lodge, Hannover, Germany.

Shaking his head with disgust he said: "It's no use—the whole world stinks!"

THE SEASON OPENS AT PANNUNJOM—This North Korean farmer turned up at Pannunjom recently with a fishing rig that intrigued both United Nations and Red Chinese personnel in the area. His gear consists of a rod connected to a battery carried over the shoulder and a small net on a long pole. He presses a button, shocks the fish and scoops them up in the net. Judging by the string held by a Korean at right results are plentiful if not hot.

VANCOUVER MONSTERS ARE BIGGEST, ONTARIO'S MOST UGLY—After years of nursing the legend of a monster inhabiting the waters off Vancouver Island, British Columbia residents fear they have caught the goose that laid golden tourist eggs. Hauled ashore at Uclulet on the west coast of Vancouver Island was a giant elephant seal whose normal appearance is enough to make anyone resolve to stick to solid food and who may be, according to Dr. N. M. Carter, head of the Pacific fisheries station, the "Caddy" or cadborosaurus of the Vancouver Island monster legend. Not to be outdone, southern Ontario produced a genuine monster of its own. There's no name for it yet, but it's 14 inches long, has purple ears, a blue tail, four legs and eight fingers. It was fished out of the Rouge river and named Lenny by fisherman Charles Buxton of Toronto.—Central Press Canadian.

RISKED HIS LIFE TO SEE WIFE BEFORE OPERATION—After risking his life to be with his family, Norman McKeigan is given an affectionate reception at Waverley Village, 14 miles from Halifax, N.S. Wireless operator on Sable Island, 90 miles off the east coast, McKeigan resigned his job and set out in a dory to row himself to the mainland to be with his wife before she submitted to a surgical operation. In 48 hours he averaged one mile an hour in spite of relatively good weather. He was finally picked up by a trawler and taken to Halifax.—Central Press Canadian.

FIRST-AID FAILS—Danish scientists seek to save the life of a 200-pound sea elephant captured on Campbell Island, 300 miles south of New Zealand. Despite cold shower treatments given "Sir Anton", he died while en route. The body, when mounted, will go to the Copenhagen, Denmark, zoo.

—Central Press Canadian.

Norman McKeigan soon wore through his gloves rowing from Sable Island. Then after the gloves wore through he developed blisters. But hungry, weary and muscle-sore he is still glad he made the trip. Department of transport officials say he was silly to set out as he did and that he would have perished had the weather been at all rough.

JOHN VINSON clambers through a window of his home—one of the many in the flood-evacuated area of Council Bluffs, Ia.—to get rations for his pet dog, Ragsey. The dog had to be left behind when the family evacuated and John worried so much about him starving that he got a police pass to visit the house. Grocery stores were closed so John did the next best thing—he "robbed" his own house to feed an approving Ragsey.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

TRAP ROBBER

Og-hin-sha, the Indian.
Outsmarted Two Trap
Robbers

By KERRY WOOD

"The Devil Beast has been here!"

Og-hin-sha the Stoney stayed in the trap-set, black eyes brooding on the havoc. Carefully hidden traps had been dug up, each one mockingly exposed and the bait taken. To make matters worse, the animal for which the Indian had so laboriously set the traps had come this way the night before and stopped only a dozen yards from the ruined set. Had the traps been undisturbed, Og-hin-sha might now be putting a priceless pelt in his knapsack.

Instead, the evil wolverine had spoiled the set. Only a cunning wolverine would have dared to stalk onto a set and nosed out the chains, pulling each trap from its place of concealment. And bait once defied by a wolverine was spurned by every creature in the woods.

Og-hin-sha gathered the traps and dropped them in his bag. The setting was ruined, he would have to try some other spot. On he trotted, his snowshoes clicking faintly as he followed the winding trap-line.

"The beast has followed my trail!" That meant the next set was doomed. There he had built a tiny log pen with a small opening in the roof. A marten set, with a dead squirrel for bait inside.

When he came in sight of this set, the Indian's face became grim. Because he had caught a marten, and marten skins were worth sixty dollars each. But the wolverine had come along and smashed the Stoney's log pen to reach the prize, and scattered bits of marten fur told the rest of the story. The vicious-furred Devil Beast had torn the slender furbearer to shreds.

All along the trap-line the story was the same. The wolverine ruined every set. And whenever an animal had been caught, the trap-robbler had ripped it apart to foil the trapper's gains. By the end of the day, Og-hin-sha's rage made him swear vengeance.

The angry Stoney worked out a wolverine set that was apparently too simple to succeed. A log-walled pen with a generous chunk of bait inside, with an opening at either end of the enclosure. A dozen feet back from the pen, he placed a large trap. A yard from this, still in line away from the pen, another. And a third trap a few feet farther back.

There was cunning in his plan. Og-hin-sha knew the way of the wily wolverine. The robber always stalked straight up to a pen-set, expecting to find the traps close to the bait. So the two openings that were trapless would bait the animal. Nor was there a trap inside the pen near the bait, and this would also puzzle the beast. Because the wolverine always seeks to find and expose the traps before he tamps with bait.

So when it came to his traps around the pen Og-hin-sha had built, the beast would become cautious. As a result, it would back away and circle the set. Walking around anything suspicious is characteristic of all animals, the wolverine being no exception. And when the Devil Beast circled the baited pen, Og-hin-sha hoped that the robber, eyes on the puzzling pen, would place an untrusting paw in one of the waiting traps.

The Indian built the set on the last of his three trap-lines that radiated from his central cabin. The wolverine had already visited two of his routes, forcing him to lift the traps. Time enough to set them out again when he had caught the marauder, for he knew that the widely wandering wolverine would shortly discover his remaining trap-line.

So he placed the simple set on this line, near the middle of the elongated loop that started and ended at his cabin. The animal would follow the trail from whatever point it happened to join the loop, and Og-hin-sha reasoned that if it discovered and wrecked several ordinary sets before coming to the robber-set at the end of the loop, perhaps the Devil Beast would not be so cautious then. Day after day he tended this solitary line, patiently waiting for the marauder to find it.

Then came the morning when he saw robber tracks again. Not wolverine marks this time, but man-prints. The tracks were in-toed like the Indian's own prints, but he scorned to believe that the thief was a full-blooded member of his own people. A wandering half-breed, skulking along honest trapper's trails and robbing their sets of fur. This thief had sneaked along Og-hin-sha's lines in other years, and the Stoney's eyes gleamed when he recognized the hated tracks. They were only a day old this time, and a day's start was not too great a lead. Og-hin-sha pumped a cartridge into the back of his rifle and mapped on the safety before racing on.

Five sets the man had robbed before another trap-robbler joined the trail. Og-hin-sha smiled grimly, reading the snow story. Here the wolverine he had been expecting had finally found the trap-line, and here the human thief had stood, studying the Devil Beast's trail and probably cursing it because it would spoil his looting. For once, Og-hin-sha was glad to see the evil wolverine's tracks.

Both robbers kept to the trap-trail, the wolverine to plunder and the other thief hoping the beast would leave the plundering to him. But the animal wrecked set after set, stealing the bait and spoiling fur. And one day behind the trails left by the two trap-robbers Og-hin-sha the Stoney swung along, at a swift pace with his rifle ready for use.

The next set was the robber set—the end of the loop where he had placed the log pen and three traps to catch the wolverine. The Indian speared, eager to see the result of his planning. And he was eager, too, to follow the man-thief's trail should he leave the trap-line when it curved back towards Og-hin-sha's cabin. The Indian was ready to follow, wherever the thief might go.

But the trail ended abruptly at the last set. Even as he had hoped, the wolverine had been baffled by the trapless pen and withdrew to circle the set. The first trap had caught the Devil Beast. Then the second trap-robbler had come along, and the thief had cut a club and advanced to kill the cornered wolverine. Stepping close with his stick raised, the half-breed blundered into one of the two un sprung and hidden traps Og-hin-sha had set. The sudden snap of steel on his moccasined foot had undoubtedly hurt; he had jumped with the pain and surprise of it. And that jump had been his undoing for the man had stumbled and fallen to the snow. He had chanced to fall close to the trapped wolverine, and in one savage leap the cornered beast had reached the breed's brown throat and used its vicious teeth to kill.

Og-hin-sha stared a moment at the dead man, then raised his rifle and shot the other trap-robbler, the snarling wolverine.

"A good robber-set," muttered the Stoney, smiling grimly.

THE TILLERS

Canadian Sappers Erect Huge Bridge On Alaska Highway

DONJOK VALLEY.—Canadian soldiers will soon complete a vital part of the Alaska highway less than 300 miles from the Arctic Circle. During the winter they worked in temperatures that at times hit 40 and 50 degrees below zero.

The project is the $2,500,000 Donjek bridge with eight spans and an overall length of 1,800 feet of steel and concrete construction. The men are members of No. 1 road maintenance Company, Royal Canadian Engineers, commanded by Major Boe Black of Fredericton.

Started as a training program for the Canadian sappers who are permanently engaged in road maintenance on the Alaska highway, the bridge received top priority last year when floods destroyed five smaller crossings and caused 60 washouts on a 50-mile stretch of road.

It was in 1949 that the engineers began work on the piers for the bridge, but there was little concentrated effort at speed. The plan then was to have the sappers construct the bridge over a period of five years.

There was no priority for either men or materials and the company, being a mobile unit, was unable to spend much time on the project, their services being required for maintenance elsewhere.

In November, 1950, Maj. Black arrived at the Donjek and the following summer's floods resulted in the bridge getting priority with orders to complete it without further delay.

When completed, the Donjek bridge, largest bridge-building project undertaken by an army force, will replace seven wooden trestles which each year have been threatened by floodwaters. The bridge also will cut out a section of the highway dotted with treacherous curves and poor grades.

Before approaches to the bridge could be opened, the engineers, using very little explosive, had to cut through permafrost and remove obstacles which tested the strength of high-powered bulldozers and scrapers. In many instances steam had to be fed underground to soften the surface before a cut could be made in the ground.

Some 1,200 tons of steel and hundreds of tons of concrete are being used.

The bridge will be opened about June 15 as a permanent part of the Alaska highway near mile 1130.

"Nothing has been easy up here in the frozen north, but many of my men would stay on another year if they were required," says Maj. Black. "Many of course are looking forward to a tour of duty in a more southerly climate."

"I'm off to Korea, but not until this job is done."
